JO RUSSELL,

After a Long Illness Succumbs to the Inevitable and Passes Over the River.

A GOOD MAN GONE TO HIS REWARD.

The citizens of Columbia were greatly shocked last Saturday morning when the announcement spread over the community that Jo Russell was dead. Everybody in Columbia knew that he was in a very critical condition, but his death was not expected at the time it occurred. In fact those who frequently visited his bedside were of the opinion that he might possibly live several months. The evening of his demise he arose from his bed, walked to the dining-room and ate his supper with the family, convincing his wife and sons that his condition was much better.

After tea he returned to his bedroom and laid down, feeling more comfortable than usual. A few minutes before 10 o'clock, his wife, who was lying upon the bed with him, Mr. Russell fanning her, the night being very warm, suddenly noticed the heavy breathing of her husband, and by the time the family was summoned death had come.

Jo Russell was born in Columbia, Ky., May 1st, 1840, making him 66 years, 1 month and 8 days old.

When the war between the States broke out he enlisted in the Third Kentucky infantry, Bramlette's regiment, and served until peace was declared. During that bloody strife he was twice wounded, and for gallantry he was promoted from a private to that of first Lieutenant in Captain B. F. Powell's company. Soon after the close of the war he accepted a position as traveling salesman out of Louisville and continued that vocation until about two years before his death. He was with Bamberger, Bloom & Co. during the reign of that firm and later with J. Bacon & Son, and for many years was one of Louisville's most popular salesmen, commanding a large salary.

Forty years ago he was married to Miss Sue Frisby, of Wayne county, who survives him, together with two sons, Dr. C. M. Russell and Jo O. Russell. He also leaves two brothers, J. M. and J. O. Russell, and one sister, Miss Kate Russell.

The deceased was a man of retiring disposition, yet he had his convictions, but he spoke them in a most respectful manner. He was a man of the strictest honor, his even dealings with his fellow men endearing him to all with whom he transacted business.

He was never known to decry the unfortunate, but with willing hands and a lovable disposition he was ever ready to do what he could to alleviate want and calm distress. In fact were we to write a book of eulogies on his life and character we could not say more than this: He was a true Kentucky gentleman, a friend to everybody and everybody was his friend.

When quite a young man he made a profession of his faith in Christ, united with the Presbyterian church, and lived consistently until the end came. A short time before he died he said to Rev. W. C. Clemens, his pastor, that he was only flesh and blood, and that during his long service in the church that he had done some things not altogether pleasing, but he communed with his God and was perfectly willing to go when the Master called.

The funeral services were held at the residence Sunday forenoon, conducted by Rev. Clemens, assisted by Rev. A. R. Kasey and Eld. Z. T. Williams. The interment was in the city cemetery. To those who have been so sorely bereft, our sympathy is extended.

The Columbia Band, assisted by Mrs. Rounds and her class and other local talent, gave a very creditable entertainment at the court-house last Thursday evening. The exercises were opened by Rev. A. R. Kasey, who delivered a very interesting address. Miss Lina Rosenfield, in her usual happy style, rendered a solo; Misses Lula Allen, Katie Murrell and Bess Rowe recited most admirably; Mr. Elam Harris and Miss Verna Dohoney, violin and guitar, delighted the audience. The solo by Miss Lone Rounds was rendered beautifully. The band was in a playing mood and favored the audience with a number of new selections. At the hour of 10:15 the program had been rendered, those in attendance winding their way to their respective homes feeling glad that they had been highly entertained.

A large number of the younger set met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Harris last Friday evening and enjoyed themselves to their heart's content until the hour of 10 o'clock. There were music and parlour games, and the young belles and beaux who were inclined to stroll about the yard were given an opportunity. Ernest Harris, who is very quiet—not often seen with young ladies, was master of ceremonies and he performed his duty to perfection. There were several grown persons present, who intently looked on wishing that they could return to their childhood days, play "Jennie Put the Kettle on" and "Come under my Honey, my Love."

Rev. A. R. Kasey, of Columbia, Messrs. D. E. McQuade and E. E. McGee, of Burkesville, were made Royal Arch Masons in Columbia Chapter, No. 7, last Friday night. Past Grand High Priest Owen D. Thomas, of Lebanon, was here to witness the work. Companions H. S. McElroy, of Lebanon, G. B. M. Stephenson, C. R. Hicks, L. S. Bow, J. T. Glidewell, V. P. Jones, J. H. Turk, Burkesville, and Geo. McMahon, of East Fork, were also present. The team having the work in charge were highly complimented by Past Grand High Priest Thomas.

Luther Gideon Sneed was arrested last Wednesday, charged with selling liquor without authority. Thursday morning he was brought before Judge Hancock, confessed his guilt, and was given sixty days in the county jail. His place of operation was on the Greensburg road, one mile from Columbia. Mr. Sneed's troubles have just begun. When he serves out his sixty days the Government authorities will take him in charge. The way of the transgressor is hard.

CAN'T HEAD US.

There is no telling what the dimensions of Columbia will be in the next year or two if interests continues at the present rate. Mr. R. O. Mulligan, a real estate dealer of Scottsville, was here last week. He purchased eight and one-half acres from J. O. Russell for $850; ten acres from O. C. Vaughan for $750. This land lies in the suburbs of Columbia, just outside the corporate limits. Mr. Mulligan will return to Columbia this week, lay off town lots, open streets, and in the near future he will have a public sale of building sites.

PREACHING NEXT SUNDAY.

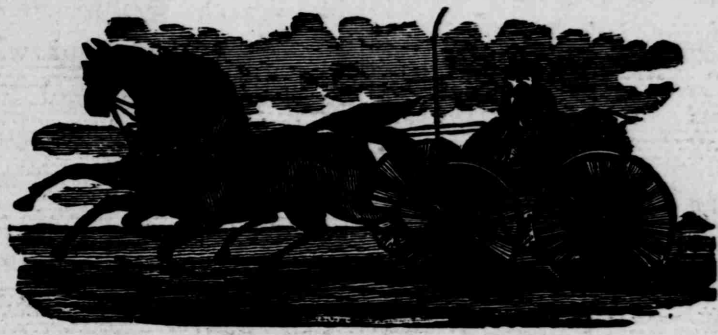

J. L. Adkins, Albany.
W. H. C. Sandidge, Union.
J. F. Roach, Pierces Chapel.
A. R. Kasey, Columbia.
W. A. Grant, Cane Valley.
